Orange Cyberdefense Guideline

Global Brand
May 2024

This guideline explains how to apply the ‘Orange Cyberdefense’ graphic universe.

About this guideline

This document will help you understand and use the basic elements of our identity. With its help, we can build a brand that’s recognised and loved all over the world.

Changing the rules will weaken the brand.
Sticking to the rules will strengthen it.

It refers to brand elements that you can download at brand.orange.com

1. Introduction

We are the trusted cyber partner committed to create value for all by delivering a safest digital space.

As a leading security services provider, we strive to build a safer digital society. We are a threat research and intelligence-driven security provider offering unparalleled access to current and emerging threats.

We believe that by protecting the digital space we protect the people in their everyday life because above all, cybersecurity is a human journey.

To demonstrate our unique positioning, we needed a strong graphical platform that gather our human and quirky approach.

It is based on graphical round shapes that convey protection, like a shield. It brings dynamism and plenty of options to adapt to formats and to animate.

Close to Simple Positive Bold

Close to - We're at your side when you need us, to understand and anticipate your needs, and respond in a way that is right for you. We want to develop a relationship with you that is built on trust, affinity and mutual respect.

Simple - We speak in a way that is clear and direct, avoiding jargon. We simplify things as much as possible. We'll also work hard to make you feel at home with us, and with our technology.

Positive - We're caring and confident in the future. We like celebrating your success. We use our expertise and positive energy to help you make the most of daily life, and our enthusiasm is catching.

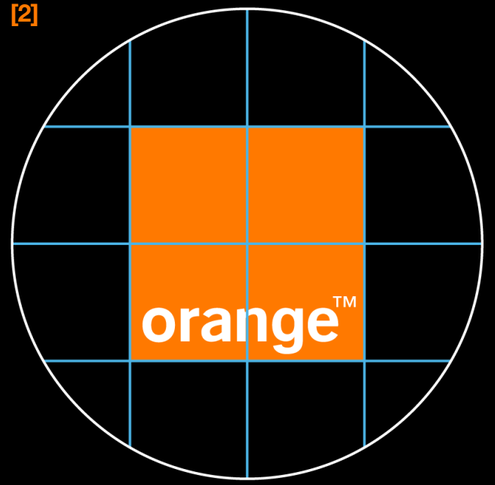

Bold - We are open to the world, and the opportunities it can bring us. We dare to think and act differently. We rely on our strengths to innovate, challenge conventions and improve the way we do things.

3. Logo
3 Key principles

[1]

[3]

[1] The Orange Cyberdefense logo is a bespoke design - always use original artwork.

2 The Orange Master logo forms the basis of our grid.

3 The Orange Cyberdefense Small logo is used for minimum size work and has animated behaviours.

Always use original artwork from brand.orange.com

Orange Restricted

3. Logo
Master logo

[2]

The Orange Cyberdefense logo [1] consists of the Orange logo and the word ‘Cyberdefense’ (descriptor) in a fixed construction.

To protect the integrity of the Orange Cyberdefense logo, always aim to apply a minimum clear space [2] that is equal to 0.5 X (in some cases where space is limited, this can be 0.25X).

The ‘Cyberdefense’ descriptor is always on the right of the logo so it is read as ‘Orange Cyberdefense’.

Always use original artwork from brand.orange.com

Orange Restricted

3. Logo
Colorways

The Orange square logo should be used in full color orange whenever possible.

There may be some limited exceptions (e.g. co-branding) where we need to use the logo on high contrast colors or in black/white. In these situations, the black and white or monotone logo variation may be used.

If you are unsure about the usage, please consult a member of the Global Brand team.

Always use original artwork from brand.orange.com

Orange Restricted

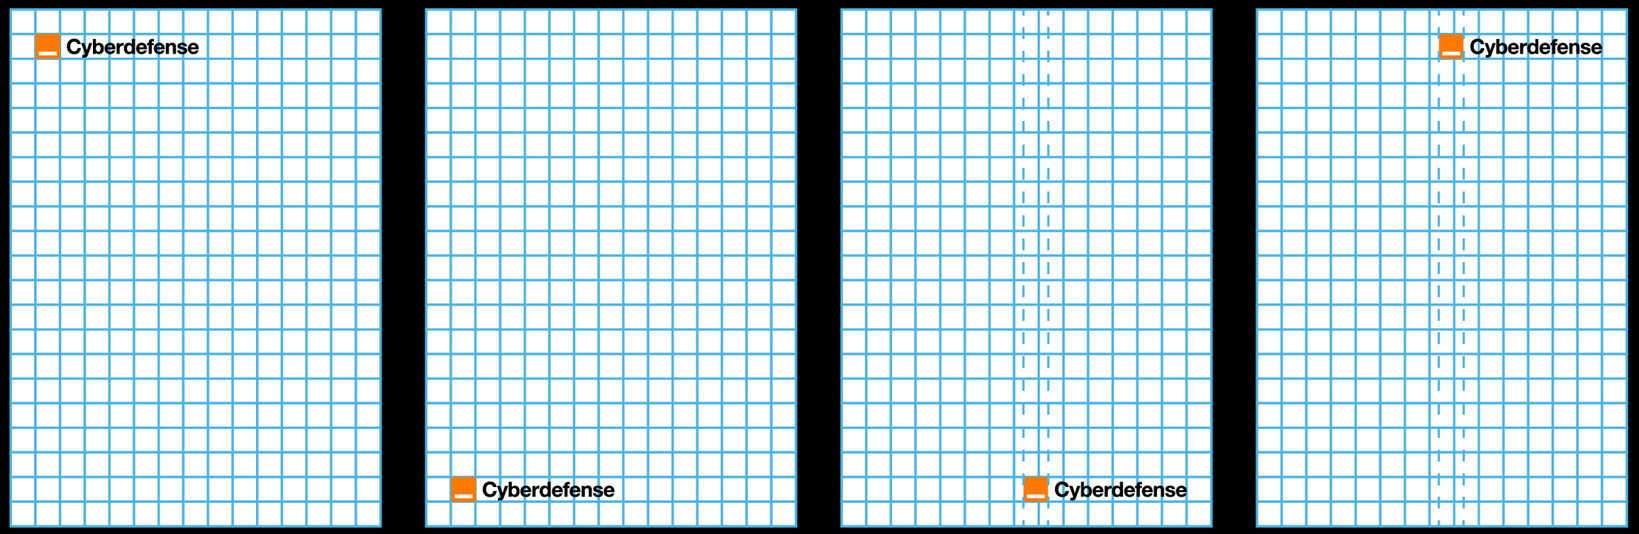

For film and animation packshots we use the Sonic logo. The Sonic logo comprises of a unique animation and sound that may not be changed or altered.

To download the French and English version of the Sonic logo and animated packshot, visit brand.orange.com

Orange Restricted

3. Logo
Placement

The Orange Cyberdefense logo can sit in one of the four corners as long as it's clearly visible with the correct clear space applied.

The 'Cyberdefense' descriptor is always on the right of the Master logo so it can be read as 'Orange Cyberdefense'.

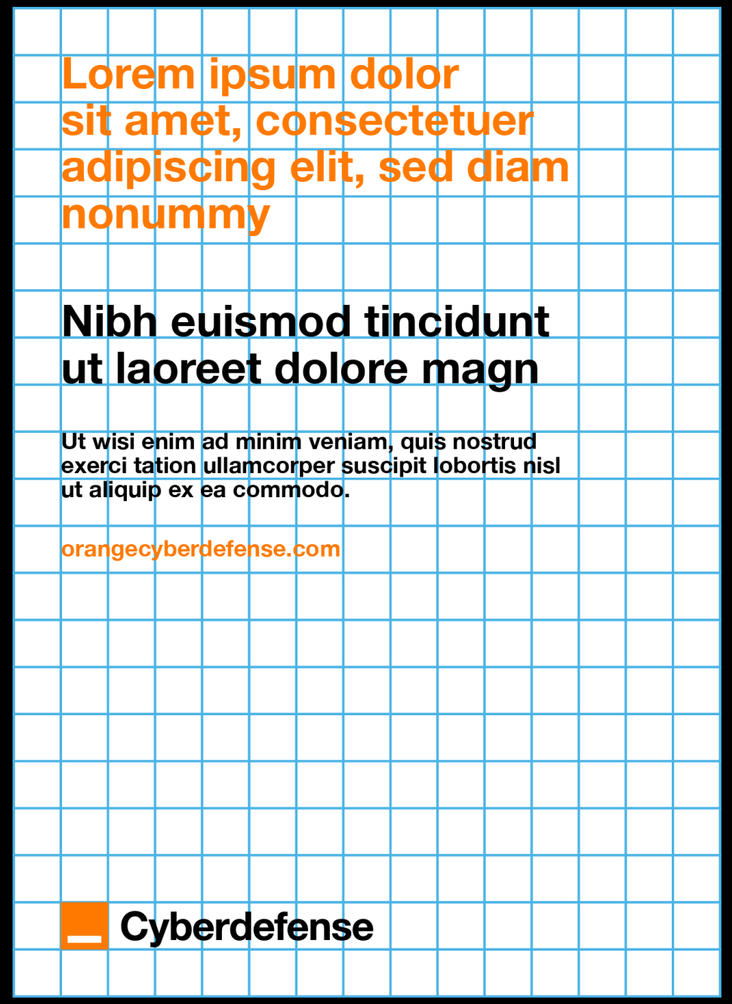

Or centred in some layouts e.g. digital banners, film/animation packshots, goodie branding or UI components.

3. Logo
Sizing – Print

x

Cyberdefense

To help you produce consistent layouts and sizing, we have created Illustrator grids for print.

As a guide, the sizes listed below can be used. The size is calculated by measuring the X-height of the Master logo artwork. Please remember to use the Small logo variation when the logo appears smaller than 10mm.

A5 = 12mm
A4 = 15mm
A3 = 21mm
A2 = 30mm
A1 = 42mm
A0 = 60mm

The size of the logo is determined by the grid that you use. To ensure consistent sizing and proportions we recommend that you use the templates already available on brand.orange.com

4. Eco-branding

The design choices we make can limit our impact in the world.

For example:

Keeping our printed materials as white as possible reduces our ink use and makes it easier to recycle.

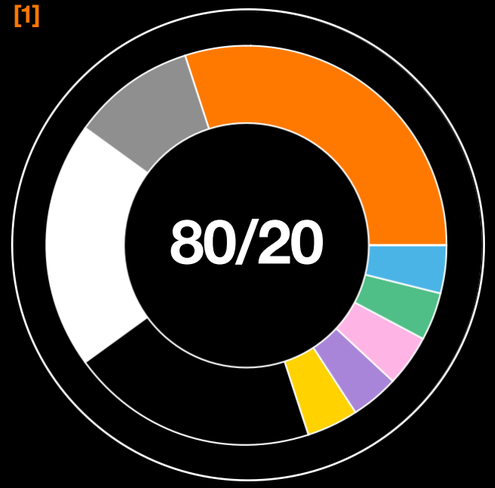

A darker theme in digital can result in a 60% reduction in energy consumption and therefore provides longer battery life.

5. Color
3 Key principles

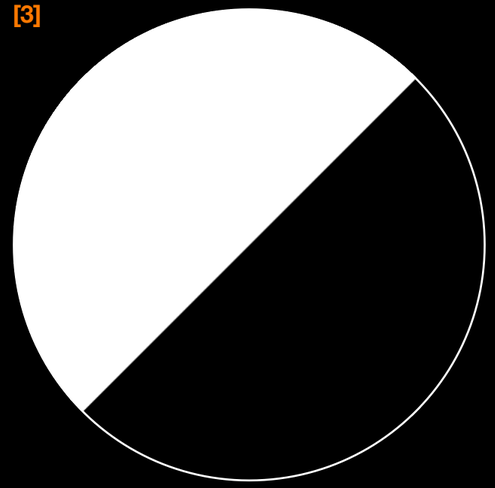

[1]

[3]

[1] We are a black, white and orange brand - this is our core color palette. We use supporting colors sparingly to help keep the brand fresh if needed.

Color balance rule: to ensure we remain recognisably Orange, we use a minimum of 80% core color with a maximum of 20% supporting colors.

2 The core color proportions must include a minimum of 30% orange.

3 Color usage respects our Eco-branding Code of Practice.

Our supporting color palette consists of blue, yellow, green, purple and pink used in moderation to add freshness to your communications, environments and merchandising.

For illustrations, we only use the RGB or CMYK references and we never convert to HEX.

Our skin tone color palette may be used to color skin, hair and natural elements (e.g. animal fur, trees etc.).

It is no longer mandatory to use supporting color - use the core color palette only to maximise brand attribution (e.g. 100% color balance rule).

White

[1] Our main typography is Helvetica Neue 75 Bold. We use Helvetica Neue 55 Roman for smaller body copy.

[2] Use sentence case with standard, local grammar and punctuation rules.

[3] We use black, white or orange for text. Never use supporting colors.

For more on typography, download our creative typography guideline at brand.orange.com

6. Typography
Typesetting

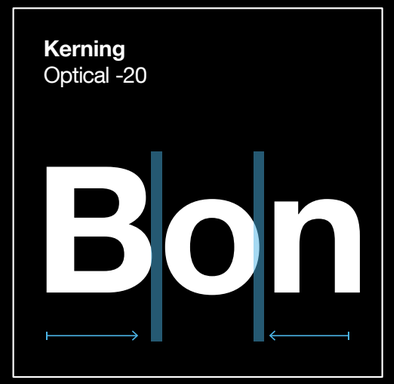

[1]

[3]

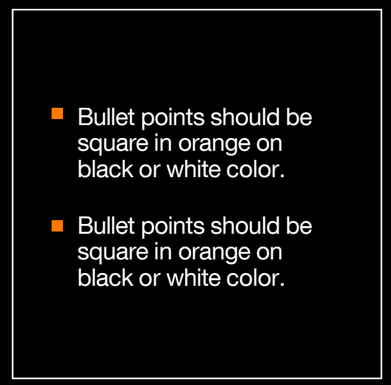

[4]

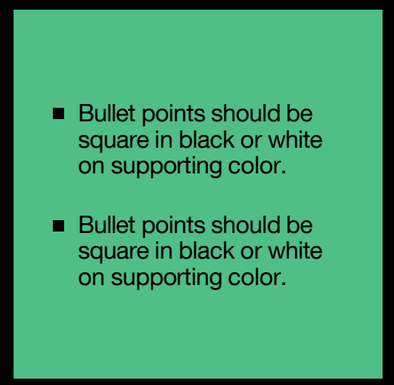

[5]

[6]

[7]

[8]

[1] We use black, white or orange text. Our typography is aligned on our grid.

[2] Use sentence case with standard, local grammar and punctuation rules.

[3] Our tighter leading rule means we set copy and leading to 100%

[4] Our tighter kerning rule means we set copy to Optical -20.

[5-6] We mostly have a left-aligned, left-justified text alignment style. In some layouts text can be centred to be more accessible e.g. billboard, banners, film/ animation, goodies, UI components.

[7-8] Our bullet style is always orange and square on white or black. On colored backgrounds, they are the same color as the body copy.

For digital interfaces, embed Helvetica Neue or use the native system fonts.

7. Photography
3 Key principles

[1]

[3]

[1] Our photography always supports the communication idea, as well as our personality: Close to, Simple, Positive and Bold.

[2] We tell unique stories that express a spontaneous moment of everyday life. We show real people in real situations and settings with natural light and everyday imperfections.

[3] We focus on people in action, objects or people using our products and services.

8. Illustration
3 Key principles

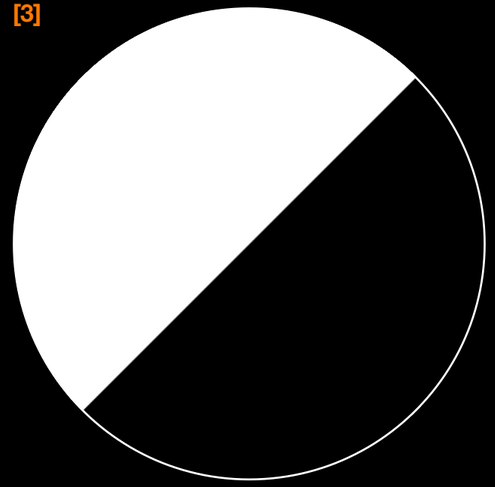

[1]

[3]

[1] We use illustration when photography fails to support the format or communication idea or when we need to create a unique setting. Our flat, bold and graphic illustration style is linked to our brand personality with an obvious focus and minimal detail.

[2] Our illustration adheres to the 80/20 color balance rule: We use a minimum of 80% core color and a maximum of 20% supporting color to maximise brand attribution. Within the core color proportions, aim for a minimum of 30% orange color.

[2] Our illustrations respect our Eco-branding Code of Practice.

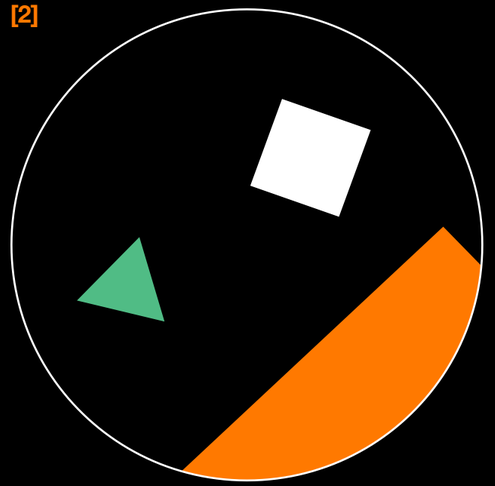

Orange Restricted

8. Illustration
3 Categories

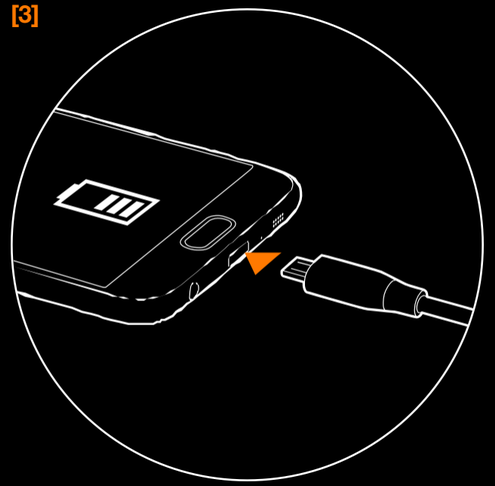

[1]

[2]

[3]

We have 3 illustration categories:

1 Hero
2 Abstract
3 Technical

We have a simple, flat and flexible illustration style and use it in a bold, graphic and colorful way to help bring our communications and personality to life.

Our illustrations respect our 80/20 color balance rule: we use a minimum of 80% core color with a maximum of 20% supporting color.

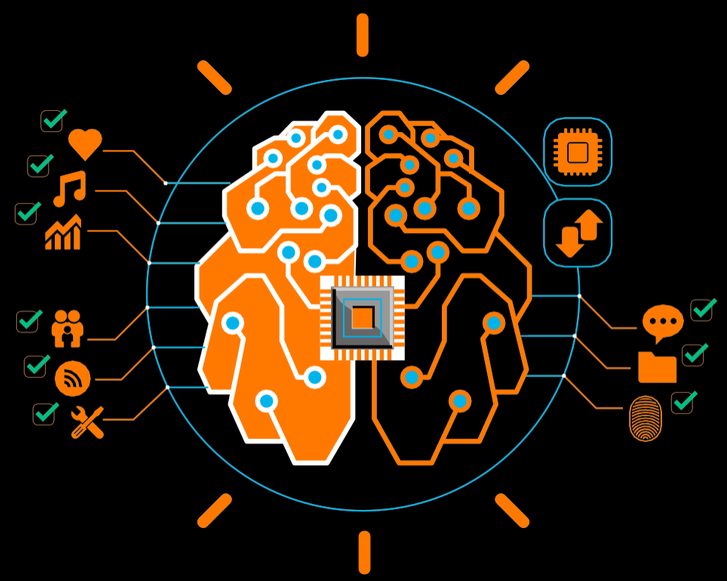

Our illustration color palette contains tints which can be used alongside the supporting colors.

Never use light or dark tints without using the main supporting color first and never use tints as background color.

11. Brand voice

Close to: Treat your audience like a person, staying warm, professional and respectful.

Simple: Write in everyday manner keeping sentecence short and jargon-free.

Positive: We want to feel the optimism and wonder of the digital world. We are always solution focused and we never use pushy or negative wording.

Bold: Look for opportunities to make the reader smile. Make confident statements without being arrogant.

Adapt your tone to the situation. You can be more positive and bold in a fun context, and write with a smile. But stay calm and solution-focused if you've something serious to say. We are never rude or vulgar and we don't force humour.

We use our brand personality to help shape the Orange tone of voice to meet specific objectives:

1. Consistency : in how we sound
2. Attribution : to be recognisably Orange in everything we do
3. Differentiation : to help us stand out from our competitors
4. Clarity : so that that we can be understood

The tone of our message.

12. Music and sound
3 Key principles

For more information including how to access our music libraries, visit brand.orange.com

[3]

[1] Our music territory is more a dynamic soundscape than a musical footprint. By considering characteristics, texture and feeling, it pushes us to go further and imagine music experiences around the brand.

2 We built our sound identity around an original track (“Sudden Dreams” by Sophie Hunger arranged in different versions). Different Sonic logos have been extracted from “Sudden Dreams”.

3 Our sound identity goes beyond communications and aims to maximise the brand experience at every touchpoint.

13. Graphic system
3 key principles

[1]

[3]

Our graphic system is called ‘Quadrant’, and is based upon 3 key principles:

[1] A quarter of a circle is the base of the graphic system. We use the word ‘quadrant’ to define this quarter circle.

[2] The graphic system is always made up of 3 quarter circles: the quadrants, which can be different sizes, are always connected in the centre.
Each quadrant must be made up of one colour: always orange, white or black.

[3] The quadrants can integrate photos, messages, Solaris icons as well as illustrations.

Do not over-use the colour orange. Consider the whole communication and how the colour orange can be used sparingly in order to highlight important information.

[1] A quadrant that has an integrated photo must always be whole in the layout, and never cut-off. Only a colour quadrant can be cut-off but must still conserve the shape of the curve. Do not write in a quadrant that is cut-off.

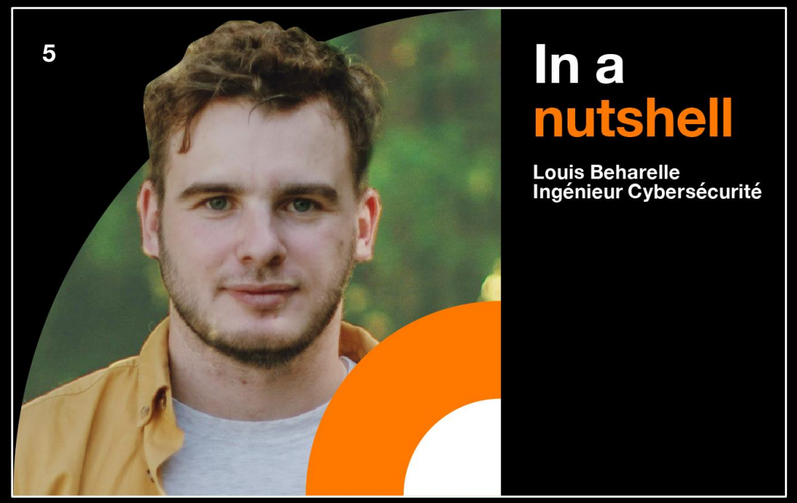

[2] Depending on the colour of the background or the photography, the quadrants can feature two identical colours. Please do not place identical colours side by side in order to preserve a good composition balance.

[2] [3] Photos can be cut-out to fit on quadrants or on the background.

[4] Our catchphrases are always written in two colours to accentuate the duality of their construction.

[6] [7] [8] Illustrations can be used, while respecting the rules of construction written above.

[9] Illustrations can be combined with photos: the mix. The photography and illustration must always respect our guidelines.

The illustration can be drawn as an outline, or a solid illustration. It can be applied to people, objects or even a landscape.

13. Graphic system

[1]

[2]

[3]

[4]

Hero layouts are generally associated with quadrants with the Orange Cyberdefense logo, a text, a photo and/or a Solaris logo.

Layouts must be simple and coherent with a hierarchy of clear messages that are easily understandable at first glance.

Please do not overuse the colour orange.

It is highly recommended to choose photos that have simple backgrounds and that are not too crowded, to facilitate understanding and the appropriation of the graphic system.

13. Graphic system
What not to do

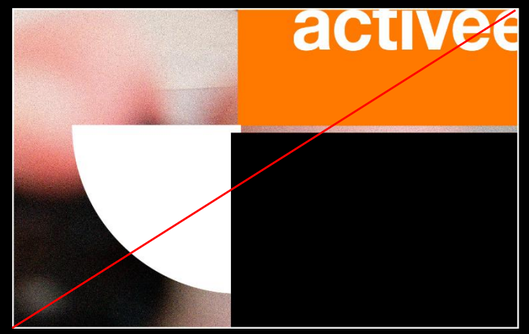

[1]

[2]

[3]

[4]

[5]

[6]

[1] A quadrant that contains a photo must always be visible in its entirety and should never be cut-off.

[2] Make sure to always alternate the colours of quadrants when they are placed side by side.

[3] Do not tilt the quadrants, they must always be aligned with the grid.

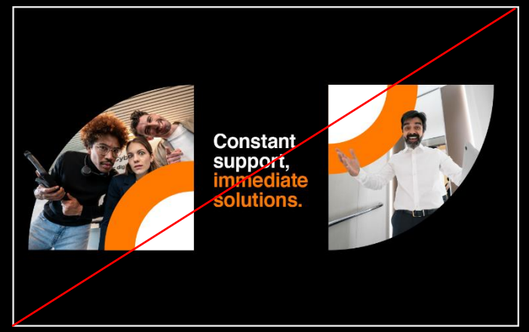

[4] Be careful not to create gaps between the tips of the quadrants.

[5] The system is always made up of three quadrants.

[6] The quadrants must not be the same size.

Orange Restricted

13. Graphic system
What not to do

[7]

[8]

[9]

[10]

[11]

[12]

[7] Do not use the quadrant system on the same media twice.

[8] The system can only use principal colours.

[9] Always use an illustration mix.

[10] Do not use cut-out photos when using a Solaris icon.

[11] We use the grid to build our graphic system. Quadrants or text should never be tilted.

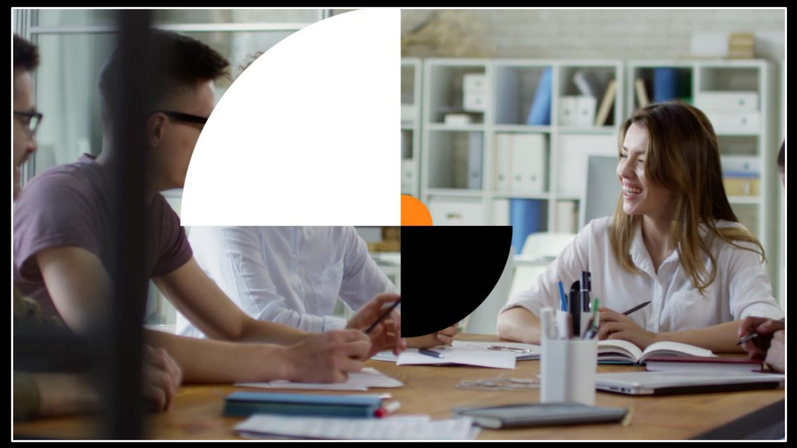

[12] Always try to find the right balance between the content and the quadrants. If the quadrant size is not correct, your layout will look cluttered or empty and unsophisticated. Layouts should be clear yet have a premium and sophisticated look.
